Naval Discharge Review Board

What are the Naval Discharge Review Board's current operations?

The Board currently follows a maximum telework policy, and cases are being digitized and submitted to board members for review.

Has the Naval Discharge Review Board's timeline for processing new applications changed?

Yes, timelines have increased for hearing requests since certain applicants are opposed to conducting telephonic hearings. Further, all Federal Records Centers are closed for routine action; this will impact the timeliness of new applications received. Note that even if the veteran applicant submits his or her own Official Military Personnel Files ("OMPF") records, the Naval Discharge Review Board must still verify those records with the appropriate record center (causing delays).

Current completion time ranges from twelve (12) to thirteen (13) months for Document Review cases, and twenty-three (23) months for Personal Appearance Hearings.

Is the Naval Discharge Review Board accepting new applications?

Yes, the Board is accepting new applications. Incoming mail shipments have slowed considerably since March creating a delay in our acceptance process. Further, as stated above, the timeline for processing new applications has been slowed by the closure of all Federal Records Centers in light of the pandemic.

What is the preferred method for submitting new applications to the Naval Discharge Review Board?

The preferred method for submission is hard copy applications, as the Board's email server will block attachments are over 10MB and attachments that may contain personally-identifiable information. The Board also accepts the submission of applications by fax to (202) 685-6577. The Board is working to develop an online submission portal and have recently received funding but the projected completion is over a year away.

Is the board accepting electronic signatures on applications?

DoD Agencies in Charge of Physical Evaluation Boards

Physical Disability Agency (Army)

Is the Physical Disability Agency (Army) still reviewing cases?

Yes, the Physical Disability Agency (Army) is continuing to process and adjudicate all cases. The Agency is in full operation absent delays due to in-person medical examinations not being conducted at this time.

How are Physical Evaluation Boards handling cases?

Physical Evaluation Boards are in full operation. Cases which were already in the pipeline are being processed and adjudicated. However, delays are eventually expected, as in-person Compensation and Pension Examinations have been postponed indefinitely since mid-March. Because most service members have at least one physical condition requiring in-person evaluation, most new cases will be held up until in-person Compensation and Pension Examinations start again.

Have scheduled Formal Physical Evaluation Board hearings been postponed or cancelled?

Scheduled Formal Physical Evaluation Board hearings are not being postponed or cancelled. Most cases are being heard telephonically (as allowed under DODI 1332.18). The first video teleconference took place on 5/12 and more will follow in the future.

Is the Physical Disability Agency (Army) allowing extensions of filing deadlines or other similar relief as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic?

No.

Does the Physical Disability Agency (Army) accept electronic signatures?

Yes, all Army forms can be electronically signed.

How are Compensation and Pension Examinations being handled?

In-person Compensation and Pension Examinations have been postponed indefinitely since mid-March. To the extent conditions may be examined telephonically, the same is being done telephonically.

How are Temporary Disability Retirement List examinations being handled?

Temporary Disability Retirement List cases are still being processed, but may be impacted since in-person medical examinations are not being conducted until further notice.

How are the Physical Evaluation Board locations being impacted?

As planned prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, the Agency will be closing down two of its three Physical Evaluation Board locations (i.e., the National Capital Region and Fort Lewis sites) and consolidating all locations to its Joint Base San Antonio location. The move is planned to be effective September 30, 2020. At this time, the National Capital Region (Arlington, VA) location is closed. The Fort Lewis (Tacoma, WA) site, however, may now stay open longer than September 30th.

Veterans Affairs Boards

Board of Veterans' Appeals

Is the Board of Veterans' Appeals conducting in-person hearings?

Along with continuing virtual tele-hearings, the Board has resumed Central Office hearings. The Board is working with VBA and VHA to offer video hearings where regionally available. Travel board hearings remain temporarily suspended.

Is the Board of Veterans' Appeals conducting virtual hearings?

Yes, virtual hearings remain available. Veterans may request a virtual hearing the same way they would request other Board hearing options. Veterans should take the following steps to request a virtual hearing:

Step 1: When filling out the Board Appeals form (VA form 10182)/Notice of Disagreement, select choice "11C" under Part II of the form, "Hearing with a Veterans Law Judge..."

Step 2: Once the Notice of Disagreement is filed, the Veteran will receive a letter from the Board informing him/her of the available hearing options. In his/her response, the veteran can elect to have a virtual hearing.

The Board will schedule virtual hearings in the order in which they receive appeals.

When will the Board of Veterans' Appeals resume in-person hearings?

The Board continues to assess the situation in partnership with Veterans Service Organizations and representatives and will resume in-person hearings as soon as possible. Can hearings be changed or rescheduled?

Yes, veterans should work with their representatives to elect a virtual hearing or to reschedule hearings. Veterans who prefer to wait for in-person hearings to resume will receive top priority in hearing rescheduling.

Where can additional information on virtual hearings be found?

For more information on virtual hearings, please see the factsheet at https://www.bva.va.gov/docs/VirtualHearing_FactSheet.pdf

Can veterans with COVID-19 advance their appeals?

Yes, the Board may Advance on Docket (AOD) appeals for veterans who have been diagnosed with COVID-19.

The Board must review appeals in docket order unless unusual hardship or "other sufficient cause" has been shown to advance a case on the docket. 38 U.S.C.

This handout provides general legal information only, not legal advice. For legal advice, you should consult with an expert representative or attorney who knows the particulars of your case. Any use you make of the information in this memorandum is at your own risk.

§ 7107(a) and 38 C.F.R. § 20.900(c). A COVID-19 diagnosis qualifies as unusual hardship or other sufficient cause.

To advance his/her case, the diagnosed veteran must submit brief, but complete, reasons to the Board for advancing his/her case. The veteran's submission must include a physician's statement as supporting documentation.

Motions for advancement on the docket, along with supporting documentation, should be submitted to the Board in writing at the below-listed address or fax number.

- By Mail: Board of Veterans' Appeals, P.O. Box 27063, Washington, DC 20038
- By Fax: 844-678-8979 (Toll Free)

Will the Board of Veterans' Appeals accept electronic signatures?

Yes, the Board will now accept typed signatures on AMA Notices of Disagreement (NOD) VA Form 10182 in lieu of a wet signature.

Will the Board of Veterans' Appeals extend filing deadlines?

The Board understands that the current situation may create challenges for many in meeting deadlines, and the Board will consider requests to extend timelines for good cause on a case by case basis. The veteran or representative can file an extension request in advance or explain it at the time of filing the notice of disagreement or substantive appeal.

How can I submit a request to the Board of Veterans' Appeals?

To mail or fax a written request to (i) reschedule, (ii) withdraw a Board hearing, or (iii) submit new evidence for the judge to review (within 90 days of the hearing), the veteran should use the below contact information:

- By mail: Board of Veterans' Appeals, PO Box 27063, Washington, DC 20038;
- By fax: (844) 678-8979.

Where can I find additional information?

For questions related to an already scheduled hearing, the veteran should contact the appropriate Regional Office hearing coordinator, please see www.bva.va.gov/docs/RO_Coordinator_Assignments.pdf

For general information please visit <https://www.bva.va.gov/>

Other Entities/Courts

Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims

Is the Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims currently operational?

Yes, the Court is continuing normal operations via established continuity of operations protocol. A notable exception, however, are the special provisions being made for teleconferenced oral arguments (discussed below).

Is the Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims currently hearing oral arguments?

The Court is currently hearing oral arguments via teleconference, a practice that began on April 21, 2020 and will continue until further notice. Counsel and Judges will dial into previously scheduled conferences. The oral arguments can be heard live on the Court's YouTube channel. Recordings of all oral arguments are posted to the Court's website and YouTube channel.

Is the Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims extending filing deadlines?

The Court is not granting automatic extensions of filing deadlines under Rule 26(a). However, the Court will sympathetically consider requests for extensions or stays on a case by case basis in light of the challenges created by COVID-19.

How can I communicate with the Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims?

All court forms have been updated to fillable PDF formats in case the appellant chooses to file his or her appeal electronically.

Self-represented parties may electronically file their Notice of Appeal and Declaration of Financial Hardship by email to: self-rep@uscourts.cavc.gov. Represented parties may electronically file their forms by email to: esubmission@uscourts.cavc.gov.

Alternatively, all forms can be faxed to (202) 501-5848, or mailed to the below address:

Clerk of the Court
United States Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims
625 Indiana Avenue NW, Suite 900
Washington, DC 20004-2950

Will the Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims accept electronic signatures?

Yes, the Court will accept electronic signatures on forms, including the Notice of Appeal and Declaration of Financial Hardship
